

LYNDON DOG POUND

802-626-PAWS

Annual Report 2012

Another year has passed at the dog/cat pound. The number of dogs were up slightly by five topping out at 56. Cat numbers actually decreased by sixteen finishing out at 54! That's something I never thought would happen.

We did have however, a litter of eight puppies born at the pound - or should I say at my house. One of the pound dogs was expecting, so she came to my house to have them in a more "homey" environment. Keep in mind, I have had a few "pound" cat litters at my house, but this was the first dog litter. Kittens I find to be much easier. When kittens are old enough to go potty on their own, they instinctually go in the litter box. Puppies on the other hand, are little peeing/pooping machines that go anywhere! Though it was an enjoyable experience, it was definitely very time consuming and a lot of work. Nothing I hope to have to do again in the near future - or ideally - ever. SPAY and NEUTER.
